PART I

GEEK MYTHOLOGY

- The Greek mythological story takes place in the 3rd century BC
- Jason and the Argonauts arrived at the island of Anaphe and spend the night there.
- One of the Argonauts called Euphemus, had a dream that he impregnated one of Triton's daughters.
- Triton, the God of the sea, had given Euphemus a clod of earth when they were at Lake Tritonis.
- Euphemus was told in his dream that if he threw the clod into the water, it would grow into an island.
- When he woke up he cast the clod into the ocean and the clod grew into the island of Santorini.

HISTORY

- The Neolithic Period marks the beginning of human habitation on the island (3600 BC).
- In 1600 BC Strongili suffered from a massive volcanic eruption.
- Around 1300 BC Phoenicians settled on the island.
- The island was then inhabited by the Lacedaemonians in 1100 BC.
- The church of Episkopi Gonia was established while the island was ruled by the Byzantines from 1200 and 1579 AD.
- After giving itself up to the Venetian Marco Sanudo in 1204 AD, the island joined the Duchy of the Archipelago.
- During the period of Turkish sovereignty (1579–1821), the island was successful in developing trade with Eastern Mediterranean ports.
- The economy of Santorini suffered as a result of the 20th-century wars, and after a devastating earthquake in 1956, the residents of the island left.
- Santorini's tourism started to grow in the 1970s.

SANTORINI VOLCANO

Location: Nea Kameni.

Santorini is blessed with a special kind of untamed beauty and landscape.

Santorini's enormous volcano is still considered active even though it hasn't erupted since the 1950s.

Two of the most well-known sites of interest in the Aegean Sea are its islet and the crescent-shaped caldera.

Architecture

Santorini is known for Cycladic architecture with its cave homes and blue-domed churches

COLORS

White: Santorini homes were made of stone, mud, and volcanic cement; this makes for a dark-colored home. Therefore the people of Santorini painted their homes white to keep their homes cool.

Blue: Traditionally, Greek housewives used a cleaning product called loulaki or blue power. When fisherman were done painting their boats, they wanted to paint their shutters and doors. Since loulaki was easily available and cheap they mixed it with limestone plaster.

Red: Seen at the Red Beach with red sand and rocks.

Pink: Seen on the Bougainvillea trees that grow across the island

PATTERNS

Portuguese azulejo tiles

The term azulejos refers to this decorative art style that often consists of tiny glazed tiles. The oldest ceramic tile works of Portuguese art date back to the 13th century, and they emerged soon after the Moors brought their culture from Portugal.

Meander Pattern

This iconic design dates back to ancient Greece, around 700 BC. It is a symbol of the winding and winding path of the river. It was often associated with infinity or the eternal flow of life, love, and devotion. The labyrinthine pattern was also thought to represent the Cretan Labyrinth from Greek mythology, where the Minotaur was imprisoned.

PLANTS, WILDLIFE, AND LANDSCAPES

Plants:

- Vineyards
- Olive trees
- Eucalypti
- Fig-trees
- Bougainvillea tree

Wildlife:

- Mules and donkeys- these animals were used for transporting goods and people from village to village

Landscape:

- Beaches
- Volcanoes

CELEBRATED ARCHITECTURE

Santorini is home to 200 churches and monasteries. They are most famous for their blue domed churches

The churches of Agios Spiridonas (Saint Spyridon) and Anasteseos (the Church of the Resurrection) are located in Oia. Both are situated just next to each other at the cliff's edge

FESTIVALS OR EVENTS

Festivals:

- Ifestia Festival: Every August, Santorini hosts the Ifestia Festival, also known as the Greek Volcano Festival. It includes fireworks to depict a volcano eruption along with a number of engaging activities, dance performances, and concerts.
- Easter: The celebration of Easter is a solemn ceremony in Santorini. In particular, on Holy Friday, the town of Pyrgos is especially beautiful with its streets lit by candles.
- Feast days: Between May and December many different villages in Santorini will have their own feast day celebrating either a religious person or religious object.

TOURISM

Greece is the fourth country most visited in Europe (Medrano, L., 2024), and Santorini is the fourth city most visited in Greece with six and a half million. Santorini is very popular for honeymoons destinations on the continent.

Concerns

- There are approx. 130 hotels.
  - Are they well designed?
  - Do they give the necessary comfort to the tourists?
  - Are they up to standards to still be taking guests?

A presidential suite offers luxury, status and unforgettable experiences with the stunning views of Santorini.

Santorini is a symbol of prestige, perfect for romantic celebrations and intimate getaways, providing tranquility and rejuvenation in one of the most beautiful destinations in the world.

COSTUM MATERIAL

This material is the separation between the shower itself and the rest of the room. Instead of having a shower door, we decided to have only a wall composed with this material. It is glass with a wood pattern inside

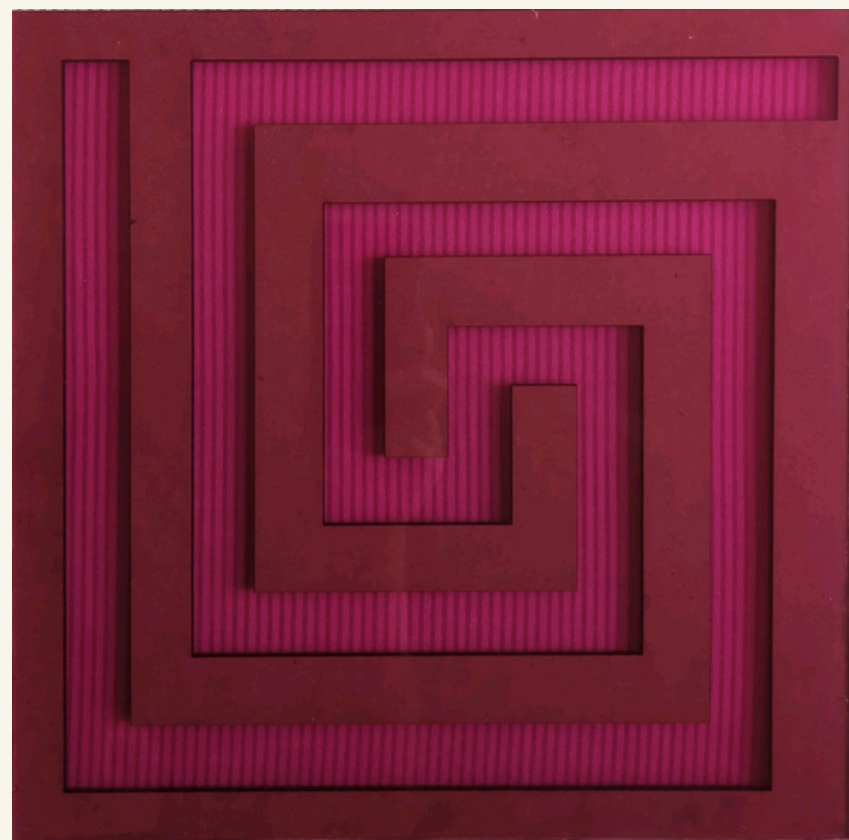

Materials:

- Layered glass
- Wood

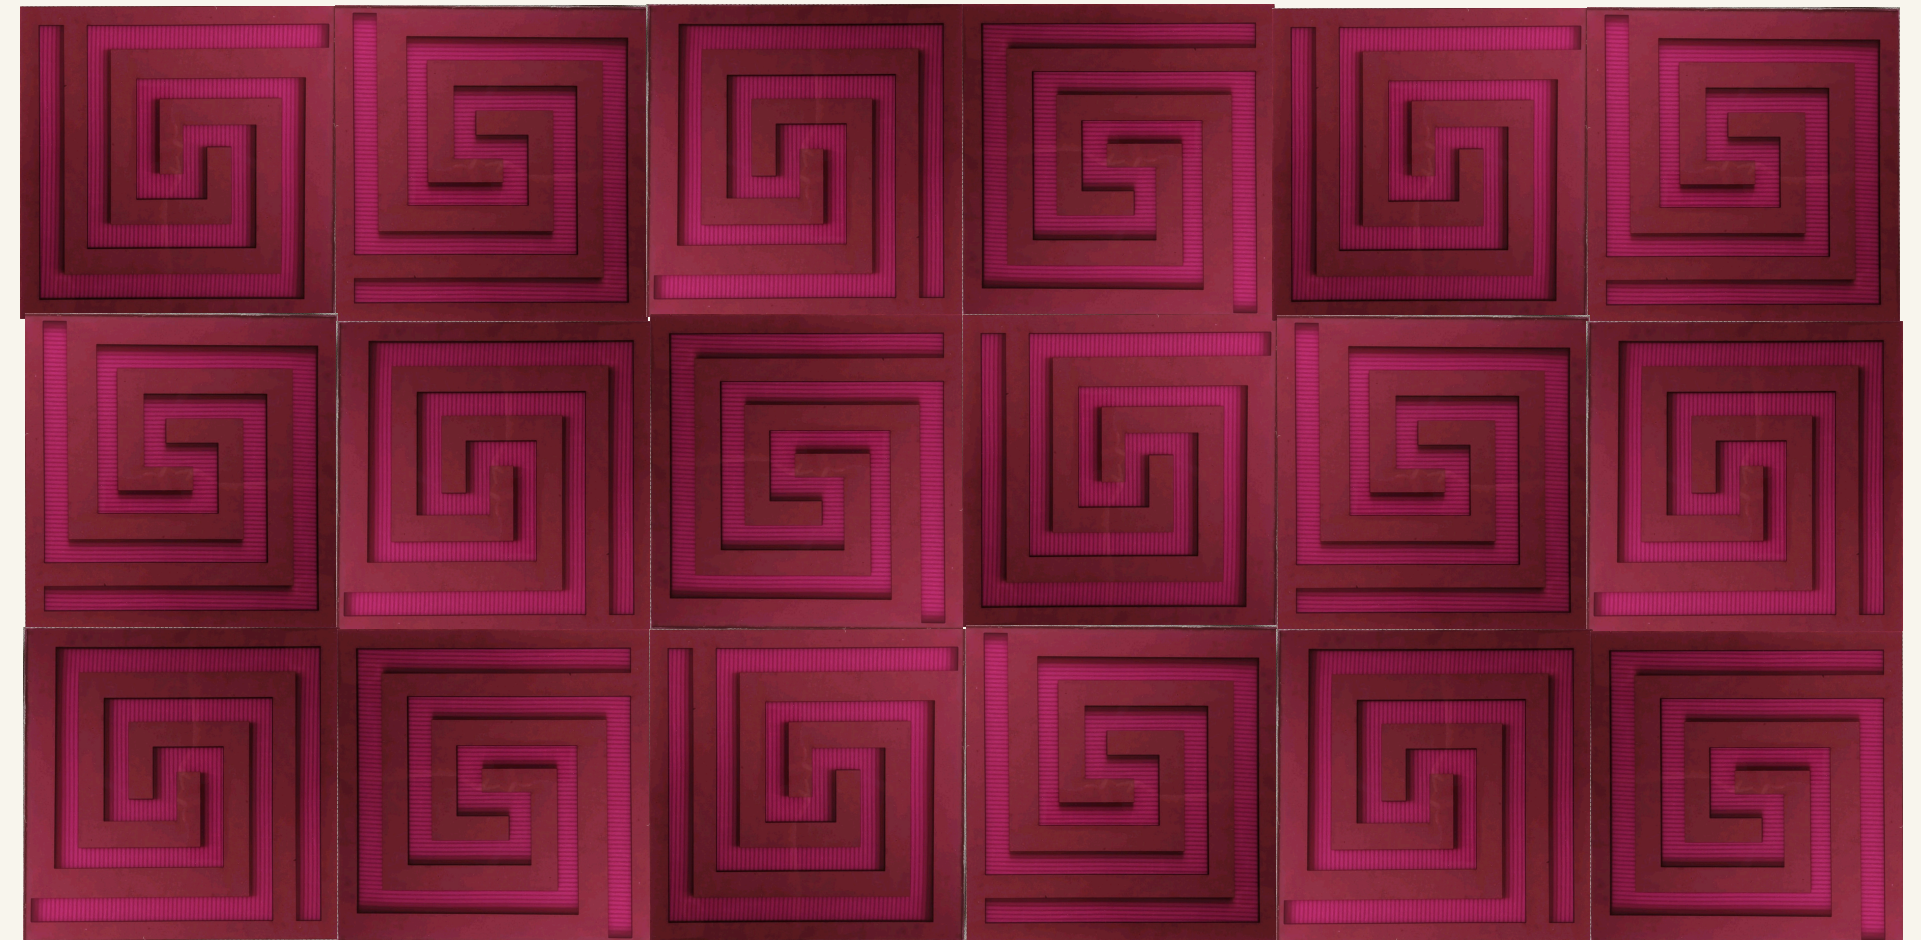

The color of the layered glass is pink to represent the bougainvillea that is present in the island. The pattern of the wood is a typical Greek pattern that represents the eternal flow of life.

We used this materials because they are very durable, easy to clean, and waterproof. There is no a concern of expansion nor contraction.
